Residence Life

Our mission is to provide a safe, comfortable, secure, and nurturing living-learning environment conducive to students' academic pursuits and personal growth while fostering a sense of community, civic responsibility, and an appreciation of diversity.

Each residence hall/apartment area has student and professional staff members who live in the community and are available 24/7 to provide information and resources, offer help and support, plan social and educational activities, and address residents' concerns. Their goal is to assist residents in creating communities that are inclusive, engaging, and caring.

Resident Assistant (RA)

Your Resident Assistant (RA) works in your residence hall or apartment setting under the direct supervision of a professional live-in staff member (Residence Life Coordinator). The role of your RA is to work with other residence hall staff to facilitate an environment within your residence hall community that promotes the educational experience of residential living. Your RA will communicate the philosophy and policies of the Office of Residence Life, Student Affairs, and the Penn State community.

Your RA is here to help you. Your RA will be around to introduce themselves to you during Arrival and will invite you to a “house” meeting. Area housing RAs rotate who is on duty. To find contact information for who is on duty, look in your building’s lobby.

Living with a Roommate

Living with a roommate is a great experience. It helps you learn more about yourself and how to communicate and relate effectively to others. Taking responsibility for yourself and respecting others are valuable skills in all relationships.

Whether you were friends before moving in or met for the first time when you became roommates, living together successfully takes compromise and cooperation. You should not expect that your roommate will be your best friend, but you should work together to build a healthy relationship with each other built on mutual respect. Creating a positive relationship is a process; it does not happen overnight and takes effort.

Tips for a successful relationship with your roommate

- Communicate essential issues from sleep habits to views about sex and alcohol.
- Compromise. Practice the art of give and take. Look for win-win solutions.
- Try to understand the struggles your roommate may be experiencing.
- See things from your roommate’s perspective. It may be very different from your own.
- Respect one another.

Living in a Community

Residence Life promotes respect and responsibility to students in their community and is committed to developing a safe and inclusive living-learning community for residence hall students. We provide programs, services, and support to ensure the residence halls are a welcoming place for all students. We also offer educational programming to help students reflect on topics such as social identity, current events, and their role in ensuring a safe and inclusive environment for everyone in their community.

Get Connected

Penn State offers excellent Wi-Fi service across campus, including in all residence halls. Learn more about connecting your cell phone and laptop at wireless.psu.edu. For game consoles, TVs, streaming devices, etc., you can set up these devices at roomgear.psu.edu.

Still need help getting connected? Contact Penn State IT Service Desk. Walk-up locations are available at Pollock Computer Lab, Findlay Commons, and the Pattee Library Knowledge Commons.

What is the difference between routine and emergency repairs?

Routine repairs are problems that can be scheduled and do not require immediate attention. Examples include a burned-out light bulb, refrigerator/microwave unit problems, a torn window screen, etc.

Emergencies are identified as anything that needs to be fixed immediately. If it's not remedied, serious injury or damage will result. Emergency repair examples include:

- Loss of hot or cold water
- Loss of heat
- Loss of electricity
- Electrical hazard
- Flooding or major leak
- Fire
- Gas leak
- Any condition that is a significant imminent threat or potential hazard
- Glass window breakage is a possible safety and security hazard
- Pest emergencies (bats, bees, bed bugs, etc.)

For emergencies, contact your RA or call Housing Operations for your housing area. Phone numbers are listed on the back cover, or visit liveon.psu.edu/university-park/contact-us.

Room Inspection Form

Visit eLiving.psu.edu to complete the online Room Inspection Form within seven days of check-in to ensure that you have inspected your room and documented any findings. Housing Operations will conduct a room inspection at the end of the semester after you have moved out. You could be liable for any damages identified that were not listed on the Room Inspection Form.

The Safe Walk Program operates out of Auxiliary Police, a uniformed student division within the University Police. The students carry police radios and walk Penn State students and employees from one on-campus location to another and within reasonable walking distance off-campus. Blue Light Phones Emergency Phones are a reliable means for 24/7 direct communication to University Police. There are over 90 Public Emergency Phone Towers at University Park, affectionately called "blue light phones." Additionally, there are more than 350 elevator emergency phones, more than 40 parking deck emergency phones, and numerous courtesy phones through residence halls equipped with emergency call buttons. All these Emergency Phones are tested regularly for proper operation.

Commons Desks

On-campus residents enjoy the convenience of having mail and packages delivered to their housing area Commons Desk. Thousands of packages and mail are delivered every month! The Commons Desks Operations also manages all students' room keys and temporary ID cards.

Each housing area has a Commons Desk Operation that is generally open 24 hours a day*, seven days a week, during the regular academic year. There may be some shifts where a Common Desk may close, but staff are accessible through a phone number posted at the desk. The Commons Desks are closed during University closedown periods.

Mailing Address

All residential students can receive U.S. Postal mail and package deliveries from major delivery agents (USPS, UPS, FedEx, DHL) while living in University Housing. The Commons Desk also receives items delivered locally, such as floral arrangements and perishable items. However, items delivered from restaurants, retail or grocery stores, or third-party companies such as Instacart, GoPuff, DoorDash, etc., are NOT accepted at the Commons Desk. Students are responsible for meeting the driver to receive those deliveries. Perishable items will be appropriately stored in a refrigerator.

Tips to ensure quick mail delivery:

- The terms "Penn State" or "The Pennsylvania State University" should NOT be used in the address. This may divert the package to the University's Business Services and not the Common Desks.
- Mail and packages should be addressed to the student's legal or preferred name listed in LionPATH. Mail or packages sent to family names, nicknames, fictitious names, or joke names will be returned to the sender.
- Candy, room keys, and liquids should not be sent in paper envelopes.
- Do not send cash, checks, or gift cards in envelopes.
- Packages should be tracked and insured.
- Prohibited items per the HFS Contract will not be released and will be returned to the sender (for example, air conditioners, alcohol, etc.).
- Penn State does not utilize street addresses. The official hall name and room number is the street address.

Your Personal Address

Please use the proper Mailing Address to ensure prompt and accurate delivery.

For example:

Nittany Lion
Beaver Hall, Room 101
131 Pollock Commons

Basic Needs and Support Resources

Students may face a variety of challenges during their college experience. If, during your time at Penn State, you struggle to afford basic needs, such as food, housing, utilities, medical care, transportation, clothing, or other basic needs, we have resources to help you.

As a first point of contact, students can reach out to Student Care and Advocacy, studentaffairs.psu.edu/studentcare, and staff will offer guidance and help connect students to the appropriate office or resources at your campus.

Some of the other resources to assist students, include:

- The Lion's Pantry, Penn State's on-campus food bank, and Cub Pantries located throughout campus.
- Sokolov-Miller Family Financial and Life Skills Center, which has resources to help students gain important skills around managing money and making informed financial decisions.
- A free nutrition clinic as well as resources for cooking and eating healthy meals through Health Promotion and Wellness.
- A Student Insurance Advocate to provide guidance and support in learning about and applying for health insurance and public assistance programs.

- SNAP Benefits EBT cards accepted in Market East in Findlay Commons for fruits and vegetables, dairy products, breads and cereals, beverages, and more.
- The Student Emergency Fund, a one-time assistance grant for students in crisis and in emergent need, stewarded by Student Care and Advocacy.

Housing for next year

Whoa, you just got here, and we are already talking about housing for next year? It's never too early to consider your next year's housing options!

Current Penn State students (this includes students who are currently first-year students, as they will be upper-class students next year) who want to LiveOn for the 2023-2024 academic year will need to participate in the Housing Process, which sends students invitations to view available housing options and then create a Housing and Food Service (HFS) Contract.

Current Penn State students eligible to LiveOn next year can Request Housing from October 1 through October 31.

The housing process is managed through the eLiving.psu.edu system, which requires you to authenticate using your Penn State Access Account user ID and password.

Every student who requests housing will receive an invitation to view available housing options and LiveOn next year. However, the University cannot guarantee that every student will be able to select a specifically preferred housing option. This assures that every student can live on campus next year. The housing process also supports gender-neutral housing assignments.

Be sure to add these to your calendar:

Greek Life

Students interested in joining a Panhellenic Council (PHC) sorority or Interfraternity Council (IFC) fraternity will participate in recruitment at the beginning of spring semester. Students who receive a bid for membership from a PHC sorority or IFC fraternity will be invited to live in chapter housing.

The University recommends that students do not commit to any housing for the following academic year until the recruitment process has been completed.

Temporary ID cards

If a student loses or misplaces their Penn State id+ Card, the card can be immediately deactivated online. If the card is located within seven days, the card can then be reactivated online at idcard.psu.edu/card-replacement.

A temporary id card, valid for seven days, can be purchased for $5 at the Commons Desk. Student privileges are reassigned to the temporary id card, including access to the residence hall, Campus Meal Plan, and LionCash.

If a student cannot locate a missing card, a replacement can be purchased at the id+ Office, 20 HUB-Robeson Center.

Loaner Room Keys

If a student loses or misplaces their room key, they can Request Loaner Key through eLiving.psu.edu and pick it up at the Commons Desk.

The loaner key must be returned to the Commons Desk within two hours. If the key is returned late, the door lock will be changed, and the student's LionPATH account will be billed. The cost is $64 per core (some room types, such as those in apartments and suites, have more than one door and will be charged for each lock that needs to be changed). Core changes are processed quickly to ensure the student's safety and security.
